General Program Information

HackIllinois is a flagship collegiate hackathon with 13 years of history, hosted at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign — home to one of the top computer science programs in the country. As a fun fact, HackIllinois also was the first hackathon to introduce the concept of themed hackathons, a model now widely adopted across the hackathon community :)

Each year, we bring together top student engineers, designers, and founders from around the world to build projects that matter. At the start of the event, we provide opportunities for students to find groups to work in. During the hackathon, there will be a variety of events for students to attend, from tech talks to entrepreneurship-focused workshops. Attendees can also participate in our mini-events to destress and socialize with others. As a judge, you're part of a selective group of industry leaders who shape both what gets built and how participants grow as builders. At the end, students will have an opportunity to demo their projects during the project showcase.

Many of these projects go on to become startups, research initiatives, or standout portfolio pieces.

Your Role as a Judge

Judges provide attendees with feedback on their projects and help the HackIllinois staff award prizes to deserving teams!

The tentative judge assignment for each track and path for Sunday will be shared during orientation. Please note that assignments are subject to change due to judge availability on the day of March 1st.

Room 2407 is designated as a mentor/judge lounge.

Judging Rubric and Scoring Form

Judges will use the judging rubric to evaluate each project, recording your scores on the Project Showcase scoring form. Companies may provide track judges with an alternative rubric closer to the day of the event.

Ensure you accurately fill out the designated project name and team number in the Google Form before submitting your scores. After scoring is complete, the judges will deliberate to determine the winner.
